Disclosure & Confirmation

Our commitment to privacy

As an Energy Resources Conservation Loan applicant, you are required to provide certain personally identifiable information that is necessary for us to process your loan application. This information includes your name, address, telephone number, Social Security number and financial information such as loan account balances, payment history, account use and similar information relating to your transactions. To determine if you qualify for an ERC loan, we use your name and social security number to request a credit report from the three federal credit reporting agencies. The security of your personal information is important to us and we take all necessary precautions to protect your privacy. Access to the information you provide is highly safeguarded and shared ONLY with the individual(s) responsible for processing your loan application.
